

Diane Mulley

I am currently a Deputy Head Teacher at a local primary school having moved to Spalding in 2003, from the North East of England where I began my teaching career with FS2 children. A teacher for 19 years, I have taught in a number of schools in Middlesbrough, Darlington and more recently Spalding, and have held a number of leadership posts during this time.

I became a Parent Governor at the High School in 2014, having been a Governor at the school where I work for a number of years. I am passionate about education and encouraging children to be engaged and inspired by learning in order to succeed and achieve. I live in Spalding with my husband and two children.
