

Lynda Hebblewhite

I joined Spalding High School as a teacher of Psychology in 2004. I have been Head of Department for 10 years and more recently, I have taken up the role of SEND Co. I am married with 4 children. I know from both a personal and parental point of view (all three of my daughters attended the school) the wonderful opportunities that Spalding High School provides. The provision of both a broad and stimulating academic curriculum and varied enrichment activities enable the students to excel in numerous ways. I feel honoured to have become a governor at Spalding High School and feel that I can play a role in its future continued success.
